PREFACE

Le Corps de la Paix Madagascar se félicite d'éditer ~~définitivement~~ les manuels en langues locales. Ces manuels sont destinés à l'enseignement de futurs Volontaires appelés à utiliser les variantes dialectales suivantes: Antanôsy, Bara, Malagasy Officiel et Sakalava .

Nous restons convaincu que le sérieux et le souci de mieux faire dont a fait montre toute l'équipe du Programme de Langues constituent des preuves éloquentes de la qualité des résultats que l'on pourrait enregistrer en utilisant ces matériels.

Pour avoir mis à la disposition du Corps de la Paix Madagascar toute son expérience, Monsieur Mupemba Wa Tshiangale, Coordinateur de Langues (LDE) mérite nos remerciements qu'il devra partager avec toute l'équipe des Formateurs et Formatrices de Langues.

Aux Stagiaires et Formateurs de langues, nous souhaitons de gros succès dans leurs tâches respectives.

Robert B. Friedman

Directeur du Corps de la Paix Madagascar.

REMERCIEMENTS

Nous voudrions présenter, à l'occasion de l'édition définitive des manuels de langues édités et initiés par le Corps de la Paix Madagascar, nos sincères remerciements à Madame Helen Miles, Directeur du stage pour ses conseils techniques et ses corrections qui nous ont été d'un apport non négligeable dans la rédaction desdits manuels.

Nos encouragements, remerciements et notre gratitude vont également tout droit au Directeur du Corps de la Paix Madagascar, Robert Friedman pour nous avoir soutenu dans la réalisation de ce projet qui lui reste sien et propre. Qu'il continue à encourager de tels projets en vue de faciliter le travail du Programme de Langues dont il nous a confié la direction.

Nous serions ingrat si nous ne remercions pas les Directeurs Adjoints du Corps de la Paix Madagascar, Larry Blake et Thérèse Glowacki pour leurs assistances, amitié et disponibilité à collaborer avec nous et nous faciliter ainsi nos responsabilités.

Que Madame Elizabeth Dunning et le Volontaire Roland Pritchett soient également remerciés pour nous avoir aidé surtout avec la correction de l'Anglais dans les livres des stagiaires. La première a corrigé et nous a aidé avec le formating desdits livres. Le deuxième a travaillé sur le livre du Malgache Officiel.

Que les Volontaires et Stagiaires de deux premières promotions du Corps de la Paix Madagascar soient remerciés pour leurs remarques qui nous ont aidé à repenser ces matériels en vue d'être plus près des besoins des apprenants.

Pour avoir abattu un travail dur et en un temps record et pour avoir même sacrifié leurs heures de repos à penser au contenu de ces matériels, tous les Formateurs et Formatrices des Langues (Malagasy Officiel, Antanosy et Bara) des PSTs 1993 , 1994 et 1995 ont droit à un seul mot: MERCI.

Ce merci s'adresse plus particulièrement aux rédacteurs Ravo Dolce Léa et Rasoazanabary Marta pour le Malagasy Officiel, Léa Christine et Rakotonomenjanahary Nata Robert pour le Bara, Ravaosolo Tsitakatra Jacqueline pour l'Antanosy et Ravo Dolce Lea pour le Sakalava . Merci à Andriatahiny Helianta Harinaivo pour la mise en ordinateur des textes.

Fait à Antananarivo, le 11 Mai 1996.

NOTE AUX STAGIAIRES

Ce manuel que nous vous présentons n'a de sens que si vous vous sentiez vous-même responsable de votre apprentissage et de votre progrès en langue que vous apprenez.

Ce manuel ne vous donne pas toute la matière et les explications dont vous auriez besoin, il vous semblera un canevas et même un schéma. C'est ainsi que nous avons jugé bon de ne pas traduire en Anglais certaines structures lexicales ou mots de vocabulaire dans le souci de vous permettre de suivre les explications du Formateur ou de la Formatrice en classe. Car ce manuel ne se fixe pas comme objectif un apprentissage autodidacte.

Ce manuel cherche au contraire à favoriser les contacts entre Formateur-Stagiaire en exploitant les besoins immédiats des Stagiaires en langue et culture en vue de la bonne intégration du ou de la stagiaire dans les milieux hôtes.

Ce manuel reste ainsi un document incomplet, les explications en classe vous aideront à comprendre mieux certaines théories qui ne sont peut-être pas très clairement exprimées.

Nous espérons que votre participation aux leçons et votre prise de conscience du fait que vous êtes les premiers responsables de votre apprentissage vous seront des outils nécessaires pour obtenir des résultats escomptés.

B: Faly mahalala anao, ry John.

N: John, izy no Bakoly, namako. Mpitsabo izy.

J: Faly mahalala anao koa aho, ry Bakoly.

3. Cultural note

Tsy zatra ny mampahafantatra olona hafa ny eto Madagasikara raha tsy amin'ny "situation officielle".

(Except on special occasions {i.e., a party, wedding reception, or meeting someone in a formal situation}, Malagasy people often don't introduce themselves or their companions to a third person.)

5. Vocabulary

Malagasy

English

Professions

mpitsabo

rasazy

mpamboly mpivarotra

mpiompy

Actions

mitsabo mamboly

mampiofana

6. Active voice

Text:

Mpitsabo i Peter.
Mitsabo ny mpiofana izy.
Tsy mitsabo ny mpampiofana izy.

- In the active voice, the subject of a sentence performs the action described by the verb.

Ex: Mitsabo ny mpiofana i Peter.
{Provides medical treatment for the trainees Peter.}
(Peter provides medical treatment for the trainees.)

7. Structure of a sentence (active voice)

Ex: Mitsabo ny mpiofana i Peter. (Declarative)
verb object subject

Tsy mitsabo ny mpampiofana izy. (Negative)
verb object subject

8. Forming the active verb

Ex: mpiofana -> miofana (trainer -> to train) mpianatra -> mianatra mpivarotra -> mivarotra
mpiompy -> miompy

- Notice that the names of many professions begin with the letters mp-. This is a marker meaning profession in Malagasy. In order to transform the noun "mpampianatra" (teacher), for example, into the active verb "mampianatra" (to teach), simply remove the letter p from the prefix mp-.

9. Interrogative "Inona"

Ex: Manao inona ianao? (What are you doing?)
 Mianatra inona i John? (What does John study?)
 Mamboly inona ianao?

 Iza i Jacquy, azafady?
 noun

 Iza ny dokotera, azafady?
 noun

- Iza is placed at the beginning of a question.

Iza + noun/pronoun?

- This interrogative is also used to ask someone his/her name. "Iza ny anaranao?" means "What's your name?"

Ex 2: Iza no mampianatra teny Antanosy?
 verb object
 (Who teaches Antanosy?)

 Iza no mitsabo ny mpiofana?
 verb object

Iza + no + verb + object?

- Note that when a verb follows "iza" (or another interrogative word), the particle no is required between them. No is not translatable into English.

- In Malagasy, the singular and plural forms of a verb are the same.

 (He/she has a family.)

Manana fianakaviana izireo.
verb obj. subj.

Manana zoky aho. -> Manan-joky aho.
(I have an older sibling.)

Manana zandry izy. -> Manan-jandry izy.

Manana vady i John. -> Manam-bady i John.

Tsy manana vady i Sally. -> Tsy manam-bady i Sally.

6. Possessive adjectives: placement

Ex: Ity ny dadako. (This is my dad.)
 Ity ny zandrino.

Oviana ianareo mianatra teknika?

(Sally goes shopping every Friday.)

2. Mivavaka isan'alahady aho.

3. Isan'andro, mianatra aho.

4. Mandeha mandihy izahay isaky ny herinandro.

When combined with the name of a day, or another word relevant to time, "isaky ny" becomes an adverb expressing "every". When followed by a word beginning with a vowel, "isaky ny" contracts to "isan", as in ex. 3. This adverb can occur anywhere in a sentence.

7. Present tense verbs

Text:

Mianatra i John isaky ny alatsinainy.

Tsy mianatra izy isan'alahady. Miala sasatra izy.

- Notice that the active present verb "miasa" changes to "niasa" in the past tense. Active, present tense verbs begin with "m-", and are adapted to the past tense by replacing this marker with "n-".
- Note, too, in the first example, the preposition "amin'ny". In the second, these have both taken "t-", another indication of the past tense when combined with a preposition.

7. Preposition: "Amin'ny"

5. Passive voice

The Malagasy language uses different voices to describe actions. In English, we also use different voices such as the active and the passive voice. Each has a particular word order and verb form. Most importantly, "voice" is used to place emphasis on a specific person or action.

Ex: 1 - John built the house in 1910. (active)
 2 - The house was built in 1910. (passive)

In the first example, the emphasis is on the person who built the house; in the second, the emphasis is on the fact that the house was built. (Note that the word order, as well as the form of the verb, differ in these two sentences.)

In Malagasy, the passive voice is also used to indicate that the action is more important than the person who performed it. However, in Malagasy, the passive voice is used much more often than the active, or the relative voice. Also, in Malagasy, the passive voice is not a simple transformation of an active voice sentence, as is true in English.

Malagasy use the passive voice in many everyday, normal situations, such as while telling a story, or asking someone to do something, etc.

6. Sentences illustrating the passive voice

1. Volosana ny akoho.
2. Vonoin'i Soa ny akoho.
3. Atonony ny akoho.

- In the simplest of sentences employing the passive voice, only a verb and object are needed.

In sentence 1 above:

Volosana ny akoho. (Pluck the chicken.)
 verb obj.

(The article is considered part of the object.)

- This form is often used in speaking directly to another person, as in giving directions or explaining a procedure.

LSM 11/3

- In another sentence structure using the passive voice, the subject is placed between the verb and the object. In sentence 2:

Vonoin'i Soa ny akoho.

{Kill Soa the chicken.}
(Soa kills the chicken.)

- This form is often used when describing activities (which may or may not include one's self as the subject). Another example of the same form:

Hanin'ny saka ny akoho.

vb. subj. obj.
{Eat cat the chicken.}
(The cat eats the chicken.)

Illustrates that a common, as well as a proper noun can serve as the subject of a sentence in the passive voice.

- The third, and final, sentence structure occurs when a personal pronoun suffix is the subject, as in sentence 3:

Atonony ny akoho.

verb + subj. object
{Grill her/him the chicken.}
(She/he grills the chicken.)

- Another example where the verb and subject contract:

Atonoko ny akoho.

verb + subj. object
{Grill me the chicken.}
(I grill the chicken.)

7. Additional points on passive verbs

- Note that all the verbs in section 6 have either a suffix:

-ina (see ex. 2)

-ana/-na (see ex. 1)

or a prefix:

a- (see ex. 3).

In most cases using the passive voice, verbs conform to these conventions.

- Note, also, that none of the verbs begin with m-, which is the marker of active voice, present tense verbs.

8. Passive voice: future and past tense

- The prefixes ho- and h- are indicators of the future tense for verbs in passive voice sentence structure.

h- is used when the verb begins with a vowel; ho- is used when the verb begins with a consonant.

Ex: 1. Hohaniko rahampitso ity akoho ity.
{Will eat I tomorrow this chicken.}
(I will eat this chicken tomorrow.)

2. Hatonoko ny hena rahariva.
{Will grill I the meat this evening.}
(I'll grill the meat this evening.)

- While the prefixes no- and n- indicate the past tense.

n- is used when the verb begins with a vowel; no- when the verb begins with a consonant.

1. Novolosany omaly ny gisa.
{Plucked he/she yesterday the chicken.}
(He/she plucked the chicken yesterday.)

2. Nafatrany tamin'ny atoandro ny vary.
{Measured he/she at noon the rice.}
(He/she measured the rice at noon.)

9. Indicating steps, a sequence of events

Text:

Sasana, aloha, ny voatabia.
Tetehina, avy eo ny tongolo.
Ary farany, asiana sira kely.

- In describing steps involved in preparing something, or recounting a sequence of events, use the words underlined in the text.

 Ary farany (finally).
